Supreme Court Candidate Judge Brian Hagedorn today launched a "Volunteer From Home" page at HagedornHQ.com. The site allows grassroots supporters to help the campaign by making voter phone calls, requesting door-to-door walk books and campaign literature, writing letters to the editor, emailing support to friends, and more.

"One of the great joys of this campaign is hearing from so many supporters who want to get involved and help out," Judge Hagedorn said. "Our campaign listened to the grassroots and developed this outstanding volunteer HQ on JudgeHagedorn.com. It's very easy to navigate and to get involved."

From the comfort of their homes, volunteers can:

- Sign-Up to Be Community Leaders
- Make Phone Calls to Voters
- Write Letters to the Editor
- Download Door-to-Door Walk Books & Request Campaign Literature
- Send Emails to Friends

- Request Yard Signs
- Download Talking Points
- And more...

“With this ‘Volunteer From Home’ HQ, our campaign will be able to get our positive message out to voters in every corner of Wisconsin,” Judge Hagedorn continued. “I’m humbled by the time, effort, and resources so many are giving so generously. Thank you!”
