Ellsworth Native, Tasha Schuh, Recognized as Wisconsin ‘Hometown Hero’

MADISON – Today the Wisconsin State Assembly recognized Tasha Schuh from Ellsworth, Wisconsin as a “Hometown Hero” during the Assembly floor session.

Schuh is utmost deserving of this distinguished award as she’s shown great perseverance and faith after her life changing “step backward” which left her paralyzed from the chest down.

Schuh, crowned “Ms. Wheelchair USA” in 2012, is a published author and public speaker, who travels to various schools and groups across the country sharing her amazing story on the power of faith and positivity.

Schuh is currently working on another book as well as touring and speaking as part of her PITCrew movement, which aims to enlist others to be the support for their colleagues and peers.

Schuh is an outstanding citizen and we are proud to have recognized her today, and honored to have had the opportunity to listen to her speak. Her remarkable journey is inspiring to all.

Congratulations, Ms. Tasha Schuh on being our ‘Hometown Hero’.
