STATEMENT ON GOVERNOR EVERS FOXCONN RENEGOTIATION

“Governor Evers appears hell bent to kill thousands of direct and indirect Foxconn jobs throughout Wisconsin.

“First, Governor Evers hoped that his rhetoric would drive Foxconn away. When it recommitted to Wisconsin, he threatened its air permits. After his political appointees at the DNR reaffirmed the air permits, Foxconn recommitted again by buying a building that you can see from Governor Evers’ office. Now Governor Evers is trying to drive Foxconn out of Wisconsin by unilaterally renegotiating the contract between Foxconn and the state.

“The contract is simple. If Foxconn doesn’t perform to its obligations under its contract with the state, Foxconn it doesn’t receive any incentives from the state. If Foxconn underperforms, it leaves incentives on the table.

“What job creator, what person, would come to a state that goes back on its promises? Evers should keep his campaign promises and respect the deal that was made.”
