Statement: Wisconsin Student Assessment Scores

Madison...Speaker Robin Vos (R-Rochester) issued the following statement in response to the Wisconsin Student Assessment System results released by the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction. The data released today included a statewide decline in standardized test scores with roughly 40 percent of students being proficient or advanced in English and math.

“These test scores are a cause for concern for parents, educators and taxpayers. While standardized tests don’t reflect everything that’s happening in the classroom, these scores reveal a disturbing decline.

“Wisconsin students deserve an excellent education no matter where they attend school. With the repeated increases in funding for K-12 education, taxpayers deserve to know why we’re not seeing better results.”
