Rohrkaste plans to retire from public service following the completion of the current legislative session.

“I would like to thank Mike for his dedication and service to the people of his Assembly district and all of Wisconsin. Mike has done great work for Assembly Republicans and led our efforts on numerous health care reforms and worker training initiatives. I especially want to thank him for chairing the Speaker’s Task Force on Alzheimer’s and Dementia that helped individuals battling those diseases as well as their families and communities. Mike was also a strong voice for workforce development on the Joint Finance Committee where he helped craft two state budgets.

“I’m confident that Mike will continue to make a profound impact in his new position. I want to wish him and his wife Debbie the very best and hopefully, the new job will afford them more time to spend with their sons, Jakob and Erik.”
