Joan Ballweg Leadership Scholarship Winner

Erin Pease Recognized for Leadership in School and Community

Madison...State Representative Joan Ballweg (R-Markesan) presented one of her 16th Annual Joan Ballweg Leadership Scholarships to Adams-Friendship High School Senior, Erin Pease. Each year, five $500 scholarships are awarded to outstanding students across the 41st Assembly District. Each recipient will receive their scholarship and a congratulatory video from Rep. Ballweg virtually.

“These scholarships are awarded to students who are active in and outside of the classroom, achieve good grades and are role models and leaders among their community,” said Ballweg. “Erin is an academically talented young woman who excels in her dance team, and also has served for multiple years as class president. This year’s group of leaders are ambitious and inspiring, and I know they will continue to do great things as they go on to pursue their degrees.”

Erin Pease, Adams-Friendship High School, is a well-rounded student leader. Her academic success and strong work ethic has led her to attend UW-Madison. She has demonstrated her leadership on her dance team, and their success has been greatly enhanced by her dedication and leadership. As class president multiple years and year book editor, she has contributed greatly to her school.

“Congratulations, Erin! You’ve excelled as a student leader and have made your parents and community proud,” said Ballweg. “Your next challenge is to take what you’ve learned through these experiences and go forward, making Wisconsin a better place for us all.”

Awards were also given to Alissa St. Louis of Princeton, Allison Wendt of Berlin, Theo Rauch of Ripon, and Patrick Derleth of Berlin.
