Madison, WI – On Friday afternoon, in an effort to avoid attention, Governor Evers quietly vetoed Assembly Bill 293 which would have made Wisconsin a 2nd Amendment sanctuary state. This legislation had bi-partisan support in both chambers, including a 29-1 vote on the Senate floor. Senator Mary Felzkowski (R-Tomahawk), an author of this bill, provided the following statement:

“Wisconsinites want assurances that they’re going to be able to protect their families with the rights afforded to them by the U.S. Constitution, regardless of which party controls Washington D.C. I know that, you know that, Republicans and Democrats in the Legislature know that, but apparently Governor Evers does not. He vetoed a bill that twenty-nine of thirty-three state senators voted in favor of. That’s not governing for the greater good of Wisconsin, that’s cow-towing to the private interests that fund his campaign. I’m very disappointed in the Governor’s decision.”
