Radio Address: Speaker Vos on Workforce Recovery Veto Attempt

MADISON – Speaker Robin Vos (R- Burlington) released the weekly radio address on behalf of Wisconsin Legislative Republicans.

It doesn't matter what town, what city, what village you're in, you drive down Main Street or a rural road, and what do you see? Help wanted signs. On the marquee, bonuses are being offered.

We have every situation in the state where employers have been working as hard as they can to find people to fill the jobs. Unfortunately, because of the decisions being made in Washington and Madison, there are fewer people applying for jobs.

Now do I believe simply by overriding Governor Evers' veto that that will instantly solve the crisis we have with employment? It's not a silver bullet there's no doubt about that, but is it a major part of the problem? Yes.

The studies have shown it and anecdotally almost every person in the state of Wisconsin knows it. If you pay people over $17 an hour to stay home and not work, there are going to be fewer people working. It's not rocket science.

The reality is, you talk to any business leader or any business owner, Republican, Democrat, non-partisan, and they all agree for the most part that we've got a problem that is at crisis levels.
